

SELECTIVE DATA RESTORATION

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 In one embodiment of the invention, a technique for identifying a file system element for restoration is disclosed. The technique comprises receiving a request to restore a file system element; determining an offset of a record associated with the file system element; and retrieving information associated with the record.